Ping-xPert Description: A powerful application for checking a LAN, online, or specific targets. It allows you to check whether the site is alive, or unavailable at runtime, by manually sending a test pinging an IP or a DNS. You can also perform multiple simultaneous pings. The program has a pretty basic visual interface with general info fields, and you can group them to be able to immediately see the results and save it. A handy feature is the possibility to specify a timeout value for the pings, or other parameters such as number of fragment.

VirusTotal Description: Using VirusTotal, you can check whether any malware is infecting your PC, and in which form it is. First you enter the site in your browser, then set your virus reporting service. The application allows you to manually send files to VirusTotal for analysis, in a sense that it doesn't require special permissions.
