Every month, we give away a free app to readers who sign up for our App of the Month newsletter. You'll find all the latest contests and promotions on this page, as well as instructions on how to enter. On the App Store, the Rules page lists the entry requirements, and will tell you if your app is already being considered for the next round. You'll also find links to previous winners. On Wednesday afternoons, our staff picks the App of the Week. The winner will be published on Friday morning and announced on the App Store after 10 a.m. Pacific.: Alex Honeysett: Move, the free interactive game from Mochi Media for iOS devices, has come a long way since its first release in April. It was selected as the App of the Week for the second week of May and was re-released on Wednesday night. We've compiled a list of all the major changes that have been made since our initial review of the game as well as additional information on the development team. We look forward to seeing what Mochi Media has in store in the future. Improvements The original iOS version of Move includes some major changes since our review. Both the application and the free website were rebuilt, along with the main server that communicates with the iPhone/iPod touch and iPad. The website has been updated, adding a new scoring system (up from 4 to 7 points), along with several new achievements and images. A new car game mode has been added, adding 12 cars and 21 tracks in total, as well as a high-score system for the pro section. New Features The additional features, accessible from the main menu in the new version, include a 3D track, a noise generator, a target, a real-time leaderboard, a new life system, and a rally mode. There's also a complete rewrite of the sound system to make it more accurate and immersive. The new leaderboard in the car game mode appears after the level has been played, but before the car is unlocked. The Life system was added to the website, enabling players to cycle through the different score levels (up to 99). The car game mode now has a free and a Pro section, with a score being recorded for each one. The scoring system was also completely reworked, with the player now only receiving a point for each second of the correct path, instead

Create and mix your own unique music, this time with professional mixing software! Using MiXimum you can transform your creative ideas into beautiful soundtracks! You can combine more than one song and apply various effects to them. You can add a variety of sounds from vinyl, guitar, bass, drums, synths or vocals, in the number of unlimited combinations! In addition, you can edit and fine-tune the sounds with functions such as EQ, harmonics, filters, reverb, delay, pitch and the only option, headphones. For example, you can take a guitar lick and turn it into your own unique classic and inspire your listeners. And just like your melody, MiXimum's effects and instrumental tracks can be recorded in unlimited combinations to create your own "mini" song! New features Find all the sounds you need in the "sound" section In this category, you can add, edit and delete sounds. The same applies to the effects section. This way, you can save time by not having to navigate to the following pages to find the item you need. You can also import your own MIDI files and use a MIDI keyboard to interact with the application. Apply Effects To optimize your mix, you can use the following effects: delay, overdrive, reverb, distortion, echo, phaser, chorus, flanger, equalizer, compressor, gate, dynamics, distortion, harmonizer and amplifier. You can also apply pitch, chroma, noise and vinyl emulation. For example, you can apply overdrive, delay and reverb to your mix to obtain a sound that is very well recognized. The same applies to the compressors that increase or decrease the sound volume. Animate your sound You can use a wide range of multilayer animations, from ordinary sounds to song textures. The maps are shared. Therefore, you can apply them to any sound. You can even create your own sound maps. You can quickly synchronize the sound duration and time of playback. Other improvements In this version, the new options have been added to the UI. You can add more than 1 track Instead of having to scroll, you can also add as many song tracks as you wish. You will be able to set the song start and end points and also change the volume. When you add a song to the playlist, you can also choose how to play it. See the song history You can see the song history and its points.
