nothing and takes up zero space on your PC. Check your Gmail account when you receive new messages. Spiffy is a Gmail notification tool that pops up alerts whenever you receive a new email. It features a bunch of handy customization options that can be easily figured out by users, regardless of their level of experience with such apps.

Accessibility via the system tray

Setting up the program takes little time and minimal effort. At startup, it creates an icon in the system tray area. Double-clicking it brings up a normal window that shows log details and lets you customize app properties. Configure up to five Gmail accounts It is possible to set up to five different Gmail accounts to monitor at once, specify account names and the frequency for checking up new emails (in minutes), as well as ask Spiffy to look into just a particular Gmail Label instead of the entire inbox. Settings can be restored to default. Rich customization settings The log details from the main window can be either hidden or cleared. As far as program configuration is concerned, you can make the tool run at every Windows startup until further notice, customize alerts when it comes to the notification display time, change the tray icon for new emails and enable sound alerts, use proxies, enable a custom browser when loading the Gmail account, and more. Evaluation and conclusion The tool does not put a strain on PC performance, since it runs on low CPU and RAM. It has a great response time and worked smoothly in our tests, without causing Windows to hang, crash or pop up error messages. There is also a portable counterpart called Spiffy Portable, in case you want to run the app directly from a pen drive. When it comes down to it, Spiffy offers a very simple solution to automatically checking Gmail accounts for new messages, supports up to five accounts at once, and it is backed by numerous customization options.

RODRIGUEZ, et al., Plaintiffs, v.
Anthony WOLF, et al., Defendants.
Civil Action No. 08-1080 (CKK).
United States District Court, District
of Columbia. May 21, 2008.

MEMORANDUM OPINION

COLLEEN KOLLAR-KOTELLY,

District Judge. Presently pending

before the Court is Plaintiffs' [5]

Motion for Partial Summary

Judgment. Plaintiffs seek a ruling by this Court as a matter of law that they are entitled to summary judgment on their claim for damages of $138,482.50, plus interest and costs, against Anthony Wolf on the basis of their breach of contract claim. In response, Defendants have asserted a number of defense grounds to the Motion. Defendants also filed a Motion for Partial Summary Judgment on Plaintiffs' Breach of Contract Claim on February 28, 2008. As Plaintiffs concede in their Memorandum in support of their Motion, this Court has recently been presented with an entirely different motion for summary judgment on the exact same claims and arguments that Plaintiffs now raise in their instant Motion. See Wolf v. Saudi Aramco Servs. Co., Civil Action No.

06-1385 ("Wolf I"). On March 5, 2008, this Court denied Plaintiffs' motion to reconsider the ruling in Wolf I, but granted Plaintiffs' [4] Motion for Leave to File a Surreply (Defs.' Opp'n, Ex. 1 (March 5, 2008 Order)). While a party is not permitted to relitigate an issue in the same case that has been decided against the party, that rule does not apply where the party seeks reconsideration of the same issue in the same case, even if the party is raising
