I think that this would be something like select * from table where title like '%[more than 50%]' Does this seem right? How would I extend it to do multiple values? I want to get all the rows where the value is less than 50%, more than 25%, and more than 75% of some value. A: Assuming the table contains unique values, you could use something like this: `SELECT * FROM table1 WHERE EXISTS (SELECT * FROM table1 WHERE table1.title LIKE '%more than 50%') OR EXISTS (SELECT * FROM table1 WHERE table1.title LIKE '%more than 25%') OR EXISTS (SELECT * FROM table1 WHERE table1.title LIKE '%more than 75%')` Another possibility would be to use a case expression in the where clause. You could do something like: `SELECT * FROM table1 WHERE case when (title like '%more than 50%') THEN 1 when (title like '%more than 25%') THEN 2 when (title like '%more than 75%') THEN 3 else NULL end > 0` Which will give you the same results as my first query but in one query instead of three. The number of rows that are returned will be the same, but the number of queries that need to be made will be 1 instead of 3. Q
