When it comes to the most popular office suite, Microsoft Office 365 is usually the name of the game. Most. The list of who's aboard the S/V Lillian is a veritable Who's Who of musicians-rock & roll royalty of all types, much of it of local significance, much of it from other states, and several groups of people who, while having a very specialized musical relationship to one of these groups of folks, are, all told, fascinating. So let's get to it: 1. David Blue Some call him the "The Man," some call him the "King of Rockabilly," some call him the "King of Trio Rock" and some just call him "David Blue," but this shows my age and my lack of respect for (some) conventions of the world of music. Blue was a primary inspiration for many of the early "crust" bands in the Bay Area, playing a styles much more like the music of the '50s and '60s - and a whole lot more rockabilly than before. (His own style was based on the music of the '50s and '60s - that's not just "rockabilly" but rockabilly!) Blue was the driving force behind a number of projects, including one of the earliest incarnations of the seminal, now world-famous Longbranch Pennywhistle Band. He was the world's number one ping-pong champion and he was a composer and arranger (so he probably wrote "The Man") for the rock & roll classic "Earthquake!" Big thanks to Andy "the man" Kelly for putting the list together! Check out his website at 2. Paul Mahern If you're into obscure 70's and 80's hard rock, Mahern is someone worth looking up - I've heard of him, but never actually seen him on stage. The lead singer and guitarist of the band Tombstone, Mahern played around with a number of different groups - the biggest of which, I believe, was the
