Shooting with a camera A camera enables you to create images that have great detail, depth, and vibrancy. With an advanced camera, you can shoot in low light and catch the action of objects in motion, as shown in Figure 9-2. Be sure to get close enough to your subjects to cover the bases with detail, but do so in a manner that won't strain your camera. If you have little experience using DSLRs, you may consider buying a point-and-shoot camera to start your photography adventures. FIGURE 9-2: A camera enables you to take low-light photos that have rich details. Your camera may have an automatic exposure setting, which automatically adjusts the brightness of the image to compensate for the lighting conditions. If your camera isn't equipped with an automatic feature, you can control the exposure by using the Exposure button on your camera and pressing the Shutter button to set the shutter-speed time.

Q: Resources.getIdentifier return null I do have a small problem with my project. I just want to load an image from the drawable. I just try to read an ID from my drawable with the line below. if (resourceId!= 0) { src = context.getResources().getIdentifier(resourceId, "drawable", context.getPackageName()); if (src!= 0) { bitmap = BitmapFactory.decodeResource(context.getResources(), src); } } But everytime I try to access the resourceId it's always null. Here you have the activity where I want to call the function: @Override protected void onActivityResult(int requestCode, int resultCode, Intent data) { Intent intent = new Intent(ChatActivity.this, ChatDetailActivity.class); intent.putExtra("contactName", contactName); intent.putExtra("Message", messageText); intent.putExtra("source", source); intent.putExtra("message", messageText); intent.putExtra("Delete", delete); startActivityForResult(intent, requestCode); } Here you have the async task doing the job: @Override protected void onPreExecute() { // TODO Auto-generated method stub super.onPreExecute(); contactName = new String(contactNameOriginal.getBytes("UTF-8")); messageText = new String(messageTextOriginal.getBytes("UTF-8"));
